SECOND READING

ORDINANCE REPEALING ARTICLE IV. - FIRE, GOING OUT OF BUSINESS, OTHER SALES

First reading of this ordinance was held on June 17 and is being presented for second reading and adoption at this time.

As part of routine Code review, staff is recommending that Council consider repealing the Fire, Going Out of Business, Other Sales code. This ordinance was adopted in 1973 at the suggestion of the chamber of commerce and was based on models from Owatonna and the Village of Tyler; since then the ordinance has been rarely utilized. While Owatonna's ordinance is still in effect their staff was unsure of their council's reason for the ordinance and could not recall ever issuing a permit. A search of other Minnesota cities revealed no similar ordinances with the exception of Duluth, which repealed theirs in 1979. Staff also contacted the MetroNorth Chamber of Commerce to obtain their input and they did not see a need from a business standpoint for this code to remain.

While the ordinance did not include language regarding purpose staff believes the reason likely was to help identify actual store product was being closed out and not stolen goods. While the permit requires product inventory lists actually being able to track this inventory is not practical and potential stolen items would be reported just like any other stolen item; a permit would not assist in this case.

Hold second reading and adopt the proposed ordinance. If adopted, Council will be asked to also adopt a summary resolution that will serve to publish this lengthy ordinance repeal.
